Since its inception in 1996, Michael Collins Pipes & Drums has grown to a corps of over thirty talented musicians from all walks of life — each with a love of playing traditional Irish pipe music. With a mission of learning and playing great Celtic music and entertaining the public, the band performs often for regional events, including the St Patrick's Day Parade in Denver; various regional parades; local choral Celtic collaborations, including the world famous Chieftains and numerous other civic and charitable events. Also a competitive band, the award-winning Michael Collins Pipes & Drums is a Grade IV member of the Western United States Pipe Band Association, and successfully competes throughout the region in parades and Highland games.
